SNACKS

Banana & Plantain Chips

Plantain is classified as a fruit when ripe, but when green it is considered a vegetable because of its low sugar content. When green or ripe it can be boiled, baked or salted and fried. When green it can also be sliced into thin pieces, deep fried and eaten as a snack or grated and cooked as porridge.

Banana is a fruit that can be eaten when ripe or green. When green, it can be boiled, baked, sliced into thin pieces and eaten as a snack or grated and cooked as porridge. When ripe, it is commonly eaten at breakfast or used in desserts such as cakes and ice cream.

Ackee

Grace Ackees: Jamaica's national dish is ackees and salt fish, a favourite in Jamaica and abroad. A bright red fruit that opens to reveal three large black seeds and a soft, creamy white flesh; ackees are often prepared like vegetables. When cooked, ackees are similar in texture and appearance to scrambled eggs, and are a popular breakfast item and a tantalizing delicacy.
